THE fact stated by the Register yesterday, that the engagement of the editor of that journal as an employe of the Public Printer has expired, may explain why the Register takes so little interest in the irregularities against that official.

A MERITED COMPLIMENT.-Mr. THOS O'BRIEN, of this city, has been appointed by Governor Jacon a member of his military household, the position being that of Aid to the Governor, with the rank of Colonel. The Governor could not have conferred the dignity more worthily.

be hard to say now how the Gazette as it lies before us could be improved. Burning of the Major Anderson, Argosy, St. Charles, Kate Robinson Abeona, Champion, and hull of the Washington, March 6.—General Bab-ock was examined before the New York Custom House Investigating Committee to-day. He swore that he had no interto-day. est in the Leet and Stockings general order business; he had never received money from it in any way or shape, nor was there any arrangement to receive a benefit from the Custom House officers. He also swore that he was detailed from the Engineer Corps as secretary to the President, and had charge of the public buildings and grounds, and was engineer of the Potomac Aqueduct, and received no pay whatever, except as a Major of Engineers. He knew that Leet intended to get into some business, and from what he had said he (Babcock) had obtained the idea that Leet had thought of going into the warehouse business. When Leet mentioned the general order business he had no idea what the general order business was. He knew a few days before the appointment of Grimell that he was to be appointed Collector of the port of New York. He thought the General's letter of introduction—written by Grant to Leet—was written four days before the appointment, and its date showed that fact In answer to the question whether the witness knew Leet was drawing $500 a month as a sinecure at that time, Babcock replied that he knew nothing except from the reports. He first met Lindsay during the last year of the late war, and did not

Lindsay, except in returning his thanks for having sent him some trout. Lindsay had never been at his house or private For further particulars apply on the premises at the Executive Mansion but once Mr. Bayard asked Gen. Babcock have thorough publicity throughout the whole world. Through the loose legislapany," which is a combination made up of the refining interests and all the railway interests leading out of the oil regions of Pennsylvania, which together propose to make themselves the sole and exclusive middle. exclusive middle men between all the oil producers on one hand and all the con-sumers of oil throughout the globe on the sents a relining capacity more than equal to the entire production of crude oil, and also controls the entire transportation going out of the producing regions of Pennsylvania, so that it can be truly add that the combination is as perfect as such a thing can be.

The operation of this combination is intended to be simply this, that every barrel of oil produced shall pass through the hands of this company, and shall pay tribute to said company, starting off at say the rate of one dollar per barrel, and this toll shall come out of the producers and consumers or both. The place of the and consumers, or both. The plea of the combination after the exposure, as made to the producing interests, is this, that it is designed to assure profitableness to the refinery and transportation interests con cerned in the combination, and also profitableness to the producers, and that of the consumers at home, but especially the consumers across the Atlantic must pay any increase in the price of petro-leum, caused by the operations of the scheme. In short it is a huge attempt to arrest and prevent the natural course of production, trade, industry and commerce as applied to petroleum, in order that cer tain refining interests may not only monopolize that business, but that they may make it pay them such profits as they desire, and further that the railway transportation interests may in the future escape the effects of their past suicidal competition for the oil carrying trade. The producers and refiners throughout the oil regions, without an exception, have during the past ten days been holding mass meetings at Oil City and Franklin looking to the total security from all ex-isting railway transportations going out of the oil regions, and also from all refining interests engaged in the combination, no only on account of this particular and greatest combination, but because similar combinations of a like nature have many times occurred, ever since there has been one railway leading out and ever since the refining capacity has been in the United States alone double and treble the amount of the production of crude, and it is with scorn and contempt of these mass meet-ings that they receive the communications from the officers of the South Improvement Company during three or four days, which is an attempt to create the impres-sion that this combination is meant for and will conduce to the profit of the pro-ducers, and that it is alone the consumers, and especially foreign consumers, who will be made to stand the extra cost of the refined petroleum, and this will be done through a heavy export duty on crude and in other ways.

The General Committee of the Refiners' and Producers' Association, as organized by and through these mass meetings, has been in session all of to-day at Oil City, and, as a temporary measure, at 5 o'clock this evening passed unanimously a resolution which the solution to sell the members of the Association to sell to me connected with the South oil to no one connected with the South Improvement Company, and all who buy from the Association must agree that the oil shall not go to the South Improve ment Company or to any of its agents. The Refiners' and Producers' Association
